

$10 Million Dollar Quarry & Civil Online Auction Don't doze and miss a great deal!

Sydney, 9 September 2020 – Over A$10 million dollars' worth of premium quarry and civil construction equipment is being sold under the hammer this week on behalf of various heavy earthmoving and transport companies across the eastern seaboard.

Managing the sale is Australia's largest industrial equipment auctioneer, Pickles, who will conduct the auction via its PicklesLIVE app to ensure a COVID safe auction process.

The listing offers over 140 assets including crushers, screens, dozers, loaders, dump trucks, excavators, prime movers, tippers, and more.

Hugh Rainger, National Manager of Pickles Industrial, says that despite the current economic climate the second hand equipment market is as healthy as its been in more than 10 years and seems to be giving no indication of relaxing any time soon. The construction sector on the eastern seaboard underpins this with projected annual growth rates in excess of 2.4% in the next five years<sup>1</sup>.

"Growth in the sector means more jobs. In fact we'd suggest that given the way things are right now and with the pipeline of infrastructure to come a significant rise in employment in construction industry is not unlikely," says Mr. Rainger.

"I can't see the current environment softening until a lot later in the year if not 2021. This quarry and civil auction is the perfect place to purchase quality goods for a great price to meet the current demand, and for the future."

Assets are located at Range Road, Cecil Hills, and can be inspected on Friday 11 and Monday 14 September from 8:00am to 4:30pm, with the auction kicking off on Tuesday 15 September.

Inspections will be conducted onsite however the auction will be held online with bidding to take place via PicklesLIVE (on the website) or the PicklesLIVE App on smartphone or tablet. Interested parties are asked to register on the site prior.
